Ammonite

RUG

Generated: 24/11/2026

Ammonite is a contemporary rug made by hand using the hand-tufting technique. The handcrafted process transforms yarn into a textile surface that introduces texture, softness and depth into an interior design scheme.

Tufting allows artisans to build the rug gradually, preserving a direct relationship between their handwork and the final result.

Ammonite is available in different sizes, allowing it to take on a more compact presence or extend across a larger area. Siza thus becomes part of the design, determining the relationship between the rug, the pieces of furniture and the surrounding space.

In the living area, its textile presence helps bring sofas, armchairs, coffee tables and accessories into a cohesive layout. The rug becomes the connection element that visually unifies the furnishing and introduces a more tactile dimension to the ambience.

The handcrafted nature of Ammonite places it within HESSENTIA's exploration of textured surfaces, extending to textiles the same dialogue between shape, perception and craftsmanship found in the other collections.

Ammonite interprets HESSENTIA's exploration of textile design through artisanal tufting, proportion and Italian craftsmanship, convey the rug a leading role within the interior design concept.

HESSENTIA can customise this item to meet the requirements of your project. Some limitations apply.
