Bergere by HESSENTIA is a high-backed, enveloping armchair inspired by the traditional French typology and reinterpreted through contemporary proportions, continuous surfaces and comfort designed for today’s interiors.

The shape develops vertically and accompanies the seated person through an intimate profile capable of supporting the back and creating a sense of protection. The soft lines of the back connect harmoniously with the armrests and seat, giving rise to an armchair with balanced and recognizable lines.

Fully upholstered in leather or fabric, Bergere enhances the continuity of the surfaces and the tactile quality of the materials. The upholstery follows the curves with precision, emphasizing the volume of the armchair and the artisanal workmanship of the padding.

The deep seat and high backrest make it particularly suited to reading and relaxation. The historical reference is not reproduced decoratively, but renewed through a more essential language, suitable for living areas, bedrooms, lounges and contemporary hospitality interiors.

The possibility of customizing the upholstery allows the armchair to adapt to different design atmospheres, choosing between textured fabrics and natural leathers in relation to the surrounding layout.

Handmade in Italy, Bergere brings together historical memory, comfort and contemporary design. It is an armchair with a vertical, enveloping presence, conceived to create a personal, intimate space within the interior.
