Kant

ARMCHAIR

For HESSENTIA, Kant is a contemporary armchair with a decisive character, defined by squared shapes, straight lines and compact proportions. The design interprets geometry with rigour, transforming structure, seat and back into an essential and immediately recognizable composition.

The solid wood structure defines the profile of the armchair and emphasizes its constructional precision. Orthogonal lines and clearly defined volumes create visual stability, while the continuity of the wooden elements creates an architectural sign able to organise the space with restraint.

Within this rigorous structure, the upholstered seat represents a softer, more welcoming component. The contrast between the solidity of the wood and the comfort of the upholstery creates a balance between formal precision, functionality and tactile quality.

Kant can be customized through different woods, finishes and upholstery options, adapting to residential projects, dining areas, lounges and contemporary hospitality interiors. The choice of materials makes it possible to enhance the geometry of the structure and modulate the relationship between the material warmth of the wood and the chromatic softness of the seat.

Handmade in Italy, Kant expresses HESSENTIA's vision of furniture design based on controlled proportions, solid wood craftsmanship and constructional clarity. It is an essential yet distinctive armchair conceived to enter the space with a precise, measured presence.
