Cholet sofa is a seating piece with generous, enveloping proportions, characterized by the continuity between the rounded armrest and the back. This line defines a broad seat and creates a compact piece in which structure and comfort are perceived as a single volume.

The rounded armrest follows the development of the back and helps define the sofa's welcoming character. The curves soften the appearance of the structure and create a continuous geometry that is recognizable from both the front and the side.

The seat is completed by cushions of different sizes, which introduce depth and softness and allow comfort to be articulated within the volume. The cushions are not perceived as separate elements, but participate in the composition and enhance the sofa's generous proportions.

Available in different sizes, Cholet sofa brings the language of the modular system of the same name into a defined linear configuration, suited to living areas that require a generous seat without the need for a modular composition.

This sofa can be upholstered in leather or fabric. The possibility of choosing configuration and upholstery allows the design to adapt to contemporary living spaces of different sizes and characteristics.

Handmade in Italy, Cholet interprets comfort in the HESSENTIA world through enveloping volumes, continuity between armrest and back, and layered cushions, creating a soft and measured presence within the living area.
