Within the HESSENTIA world, Hug is an upholstered sofa characterized by a volumetric design in which the seat is wrapped by a back with an oval section. The sofa belongs to Hug collection, which also includes armchairs, poufs and coordinated beds, and develops a language based on soft, enveloping shapes and tailoring workmanship.

The back follows the perimeter of the seat and creates a continuous volume that generates a sense of protection and welcome. The oval shape softens the rigidity of the structure and makes the sofa recognizable even in side views.

Handmade in Italy, Hug sofa is available upholstered in leather or fabric and is also offered in a version characterized by soft three-dimensional embroidery with a diamond pattern. The tailoring workmanship shapes the surface, generates tactile depth and becomes one of the distinctive elements of the entire collection.

The different sizes available allow this sofa to fit living areas of varying dimensions while preserving the relationship between volume, comfort and continuity of shape. The product can also be coordinated with the other elements in the collection, creating interiors in which seating and accessories share the same design language.

Hug interprets contemporary comfort through volume, enveloping shapes and tailoring precision, transforming three-dimensional embroidery and the continuity of the back into central elements of the product’s identity.
