Kiro is a contemporary armchair belonging to the HESSENTIA collection of the same name. Inspired by Kiro sofa, it retains its design language through rounded shapes, generous volumes and upholstery workmanship that articulates the surface with a precise, recognizable rhythm.

The curve of the back continues into the seat, creating a compact, enveloping silhouette. Balanced proportions define the decisive character of Kiro armchair, offering a welcoming seat that can be used either as a stand-alone element or within compositions coordinated with the sofa.

The segmented upholstery divides the surface into regular sections and follows the curved development of the armchair. This workmanship is not merely decorative, but contributes to defining the volume, depth and visual continuity of the seat.

The base can be made in solid ash wood with an open-pore finish or clad in ziricote wood. The grain of the precious wood introduces warmth and natural variations, creating a measured contrast with the softness of the upholstered body.

This armchair can be customized through different upholstery options and finishes, adapting to living areas, lounges and contemporary hospitality projects. It creates the possibility to design coordinated interiors with the sofa from the same collection, maintaining consistency across shapes, materials and proportions.

Handmade in Italy, Kiro is born from the encounter between the precision of technologically advanced production processes, artisanal workmanship and the pursuit of comfort. It is an armchair with a decisive character, which becomes the protagonist of the living area without losing balance with the surrounding furnishings.
