Lisbona is a contemporary chair with a clean, refined design, conceived to offer comfort through balanced proportions, an articulated structure and a sophisticated combination of materials.

The front legs are made of moka-dyed maple wood with a glossy finish, ending in a slender brushed metal detail. The contrast between the warmth of wood and the precision of metal gives the chair a restrained, recognisable character.

The leather-upholstered rear legs rise at a slight angle to support the upholstered backrest. This structural continuity creates a dynamic silhouette that follows the shape, offering support and comfort.

The backrest is covered in soft leather and finished with plissè-effect embroidery, introducing tactile depth and a regular rhythm across the surface. The tailoring enhances the volume while preserving the lightness of its shape, making the upholstery a distinctive design element.

The seat is also upholstered in leather and shaped to give lightness to the overall profile. Its shape discreetly reveals the cross-bracing that connects the legs, making the structure visible and highlighting the precision of construction.

Handmade in Italy, Lisbona brings together wood craftsmanship, leather upholstery, metal details and tailoring precision. It is designed for contemporary dining rooms, living areas, restaurants, meeting rooms and hospitality projects.
