Fyra

CHAIR

Fyra is a contemporary seating collection comprising a chair and a small armchair, inspired by the simple lines of 1960s Scandinavian design and reinterpreted through softer proportions, a metal structure and finely tailored upholstery.

Seat and backrest share the same design and are divided into four upholstered sections. This regular arrangement shapes the surface, follows the volume and introduces a recognisable graphic feature.

The curved backrest supports the body and visually connects to the seat through a balanced construction. Slender proportions make Fyra suitable for dining areas, meeting rooms, restaurants and contemporary hospitality ambiences.

The metal structure defines the chair's profile and gives it visual lightness. Legs and metal details are available in different finishes, allowing stronger contrasts or colour combinations coordinated with the upholstery.

Fyra can be upholstered in fabric or leather and customised to suit the interior design palette. The material choice enhances the texture of the four upholstered sections and the relationship between the softness of the seat and the precision of the metal structure.

The collection includes a chair with a simpler profile and a small armchair with armrests, designed to offer greater support while retaining the same design language.

Handmade in Italy, Fyra brings together Scandinavian design heritage, comfort, tailoring craftsmanship and structural lightness. A balance between geometric rhythm and softness makes this seating collection recognisable.
