Kant is a contemporary small armchair with a strong character, belonging to the HESSENTIA collection of the same name. It draws on the rigorous geometry, straight lines and compact construction of the Kantarmchair, reinterpreting them in smaller proportions suited to the dining area

The solid wood structure defines a precise, immediately legible design in which seat, backrest and armrests relate through clear volumes and balanced proportions.

Squared shapes give visual stability, while the upholstered seat introduces a softer, more welcoming quality. The contrast between solid wood and tactile upholstery balances precision of form, comfort and functionality.

Its compact proportions allow Kant to be used around a table while keeping the composition light. Armrests provide greater support, making it suitable for restaurants, meeting rooms and hospitality projects in which comfort and aesthetic continuity have a leading role.

Kant can be customised with different woods, finishes and upholstery, adapting the relationship between wooden structure, colour and upholstered parts to the layout of the ambience.

Handmade in Italy, Kant interprets the contemporary small armchair through solid wood craftsmanship, geometric rigour and compact proportions. It is designed to sit within interiors with a precise, restrained and distinctive presence.
