Within the HESSENTIA world, Dulcis bed with extended headboard expands the tailoring language of the original model through a horizontal composition with a strong architectural presence. The design retains the three-dimensional striped embroidery that defines the bed, extending it beyond the width of the bed frame.

The headboard reaches a significantly greater overall width than the standard version. This wider proportion accentuates the horizontal lines and allows the bed to visually define and structure the entire wall.

The horizontal stripe embroidery runs across the headboard and reinforces the relationship between shape and size. The upholstered bands follow the width of the headboard, generating rhythm, depth and a visual continuity that extends beyond the perimeter of the mattress.

This bed is available upholstered in leather or fabric. The possibility of customising material and colour allows the composition to become either more graphic or more materially expressive.

The extended headboard visually integrates the night tables within a coordinated scene. Even when the elements remain independent, the upholstered panel creates a unified backdrop for the entire sleeping area.

This version is particularly suited to spacious bedrooms, suites and contract projects in which the bed is expected to perform an architectural as well as a functional role.

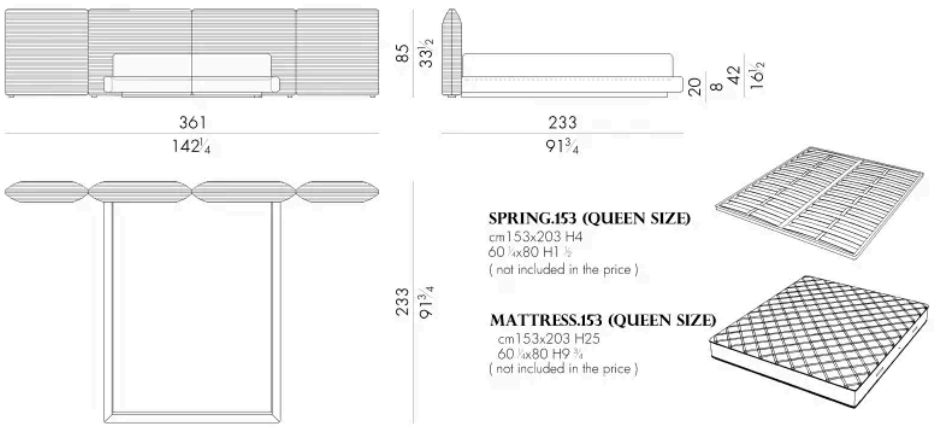

Handmade in Italy, Dulcis bed with extended headboard brings together three-dimensional embroidery, horizontal proportion and spatial design.
