Brilo

CHANDELIER

Brilo is a contemporary chandelier with a slender shape, made of hand-worked artistic resin. Its simple geometry allows colour, material and light to define the character of the suspended element.

The surface is composed of a sequence of pours of multicoloured resins. The material is gradually obtained during the handcrafted process, creating layers of colour and variations that make the material an essential part of the design.

Artistic resin changes the way light is diffused, establishing a direct relationship between handcraftsmanship and the lighting function.

Different colours flow through a slim, elongated volume, transforming the surface into an ever-changing pattern. Even when the lamp is switched off, the sequence of poured resin elements is visible, as traces of the artisanal working technique.

When light enters the material, the colour gains new depth and the resin reveals a more luminous quality that changes its perception.

Brilo expresses HESSENTIA's exploration of artistic resin through a chandelier in which handcraftsmanship, colour and light become inseparable parts of the same composition.
