

In Greffage bookcases thin elements with rounded corners join other thicker elements, creating unconventional interlocking games. The collection name derives exactly from this concept, in French “greffage”. Greffage bookcases can be placed both in the center of the room or close to the walls, characteristic that makes them even more adaptable, depending on the point from which they are observed. The two bookcases are different but complementary to each other and combined together they create new shapes. The Greffage bookcase is available entirely in lacquered finish, in natural ash or with both materials.
